

New Facility for Long Distance Dialing Dedicated by Phone Co.

Pacific Telephone took a gigantic expansion step on Bunker Hill in downtown Los Angeles Tuesday when it dedicated an eight-story building soon to become part of the world's largest communications center.

The big structure, which will house telephone transmitting equipment valued at $30 million, will permit Southern California growth in the customer long-distance dialing network which exists throughout the nation and in Canada.

Combined with two existing structures on the hill, the communications complex will also route and dispatch network television and radio programs.

IN ADDITION, transmission of teletypewriter, telephoto and high-speed Data Phone facilities will be accomplished at the huge complex.

Cost of the building, including land, was $6 million. It is framed for eight additional stories to accommodate anticipated growth throughout the area.

Boys Take Over LAHC Posts in Boys' Week Fete

In observance of the 39th annual Boys' Week in Los Angeles, Harbor College acted as host to five young men this week from neighboring high schools who held key positions as college administrators throughout the day.

Peter Bonzanich, 17, a senior at San Pedro High School, took over the responsibilities of LAHC President Wendell C. Black, and David Owl, 17, from Gardena High School, acted as dean of instruction under the supervision of Dr. John A. Grasham.

Robert Yamada, 17, of 2024 W. 165th St., took a day off from his duties at Gardena High School to work with Dean of Student Activities Glenn G. Gooder.

ART KAISER, 16, San Pedro, carried out the day's activities for Dean of Special Services J. Reynburn Hatfield, and John Grogan, 17, from Fremont High School, served as dean of admissions and guidance for Dean William H. McMasters.

The five students are leaders in scholarship, sports, and student body activities at their high schools, where they will summarize their Harbor experiences in newspaper articles, assemblies, and class programs.

ALL FIVE PLAN to continue their educations at institutions of higher learning. Owl and Yamada may become engineers. Grogan, Bonzanich, and Kaiser anticipate careers in teaching, law, and dentistry, respectively.

The purpose of Boys' Week is to highlight the activities, interests, and accomplishments of boys of achievement, rather than stress the difficulties of those in trouble. It is one week set aside to honor the responsible youth of today who will become the responsible adult of tomorrow.

Boys' Week observances are sponsored annually by the Los Angeles Council for the Promotion of Boys' Welfare. Several thousand boys will participate in city-wide activities and local programs during the week.

ceremonies was a "local long-distance call" from James S. Cantlen, vice president and general manager of Pacific Telephone's Los Angeles area, to John S. Gibson Jr., president of the Los Angeles City Council, who was only a few feet away on the opposite side of the stage. The call, which was relayed to Gibson from Hawaii, signaled the City Council president to undrape a huge exterior mosaic communications map of the world near the building's main entrance.

THE AUDIENCE at the dedication watched Cantlen place the call and hold a short discussion with a long-distance operator who was seen over closed-circuit television screens near the stage.

Ernest Debs, chairman of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, assisted Cantlen in filling a "time capsule" with such items as a transistor, solar battery, operator's headset, and a Direct Distance Dialing translator card.

The capsule will be opened on May 9, 2011.

List Reward For Second Stolen Bike

Losing a bicycle can be a great tragedy to any boy but when Alan Shults lost his second in six months he has begun to doubt the honesty of his fellow man.

Alan, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Shults, of 602 W. 230th St., received a brand new bike for Christmas and shortly after it was stolen.

On his last birthday Alan was the proud owner of a red and white Higgins bicycle. He put decals and his name on it — just in case, but that did not prevent his second bike from being taken from the side of his house.

Mrs. Shults has offered a reward "with no questions asked" if the bicycle is returned.

be gallant!
